SNELLING RESIGNS FROM LABOR PEACE COUNCIL.

As Result of Dispute About Exportatien of Munitions of War.

Washington, Aug. 11.—The resigna-tion of Milton Snelling of Washington, vice president of the International Unvice president of the International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers, from the office of first vice president of the labor's national peace council was announced tonight at headquarters of the American Federation of Labor. Following closely the clash between Representative Buchanan and the White House because President Wilson did not see a delegation from the peace council, and repeated statements of Samuel Gompers that the council had no connection with the American Federation of Labor, Snelling's resignation added a new chapter to a series of events which stirred organized labor circles.

Snelling's letter of resignation was addressed to Buchanan as president of the peace council.
"When I discovered," Snelling wrote,

"When I discovered," Snelling wrote, "persons participating in the meeting who have been hanging on the fringe of the labor movement for their own personal aggrandizement, men who have been discarded, one who is expelled from the international union of his trade, and others never having been members of any organization of labor, I am free to say that it caused me considerable chagrin, disappointment and disgust."

Spelling says he was unable to find who was to finance labor's national peace council and that when Buchanan was questioned he replied:

"This thing is big enough so that I do not care where the money comes from to finance it."

Snelling then says that Jacob C. Taylor, the delegate from East Orange, N. J., when asked "What, after all, does this council want to do?" replied:

piled:

"We want to stop the exportation of munitions to the allies. You see, Germany can manufacture all the munitions she wants."

"I can no longer permit." Snelling's letter concluded, 'my name to be associated with an association when the action of some of its men justifies suspicion and condemnation because of their wrongdoins. I should add that for you, personally, and several of the gentlemen who participated in the conference, I entertain great respect, even though I feel that a mistaken course has been pursued."

COMMON COUNCIL MEETING ..

Voters Will Have Chance to Express Views Relative to Imprevement of

The voters of the city are to have a chance to express their views relative to the improvement of certain streets and parts of streets in the city. This was decided at a special meeting of the common council held in the council chamber Tuesday evenins. In the absence of the mayor, who is on his vacation, Alderman-at-Large John A. Dady presided, and all of the aldermen were present. There were 30 citizens from the north end of the city present, being for the most part the same ones that appeared a week ago and objected to the recommendation of the highway committee at that time, as it did not include in the improvement the entire length of Providence street.

Matter Given Careful Consideration. Matter Given Careful Consideration.

Alderman Johnson, chairman of the highway committee, stated that the committee had given the matter careful consideration since the meeting of the previous week and had a new recomendation to offer, which was that a special city meeting be called for Tuesday. Aug. 17th, in the municipal building, for the purpose of seeing if the city would vete to appropriate the sum of $10,000 for the improvement of Elm street from May to Providence street, Providence street from School street to Woodstock avenue, Union street and Union square. Also to see if the city would appropriate the sum of $550 for laying curbing and cohile gutters on parts of Smith street. The polls to be open from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m., and the vote to be by ballet, yes and no.

Wante Battey Street Included. Wants Battey Street Included.

W. S. Johnson said that he would like to have the appropriation raised $400 so that Battey street could be given the attention it needs, which would make the approach to the Smith street school much better for the children. He said that an appropriation had been voted some years ago to de this work and it had never been done. Alderman Johnson asked what became of the appropriation.

Alderman Johnson remarked that, whatever the people might think of the present highway committee, they would not take an appropriation voted to be used on one street and use it on another.

to be used on one street and use it on another.

W. S. Johnson then suggested that it should be more present in the vote that Providence street receive attention first.

Alderman Johnson thought the committee should be given a little discretion in the matter and assured those present that there was no "nigger in the weedpile" anywhere and that the committee would do the work for the best interests of all.

W. S. Johnson asked that the fact that he had asked to have Providence street improved first be made a part of the record.

The Committee's Intention.

The Committee's Intention,

The question being then asked if the cost of improving the different sections had been figured out, Alderman Johnson stated that it was at present the intention of the committee to improve the square with amiette or something similar to correspond with the present roadway that has been built as far as Union street. That on Union street water-bound macadam would be used. On Elm street, from May to Providence, tar-bound road: Providence street, from Marshall street to Echool street, from Marshall to Woodstock avenue, a water-bound road the same street, from Marshall to Woodstock avenue, a water-bound road. He said that the matter had been carefully figured out and it was sincerely believed that the work could be done inside the appropriation.

The previous motion was then amended making the amount for curbing $200 instead of $650, and passed unanimously on a-roll call yes and nay vote. The Committee's Intention, recommended appropriation was a ne-cessity and he should vote for it, but that it was the only extraordinary ex-penditure the council had recommend-ed except for the purchase of the motor fire truck, which all, he thought, would admit was a good in-vestment.
